Here are some examples of what you do NOT say on the radio, to people, or ever during an emergency...

Number 1: "Ewww, I'm not touching that! I'm sending him out to you."

Number 2: "That's a lot of blood. I don't know where it's coming from, but that's a lot of blood."

Number 3: "It's just dislocated, you've seen Lethal Weapon, right?"

Number 4: "I'm sending this guy out and he's, uh, bleeding. And a little confused."

Number 5: "We're in the kitchen, so come to the kitchen when you come inside."

Number 6: "Sometimes bones just stick out like that. You'll be fine."

Number 7: "Hey, when you send the next team in, tell them they might need to duck."

Number 8: "Be careful, there's a hole in the floor."

Number 9: "I think this guy's out of his mind."

Number 10: "I'm sending this old guy out."

Number 11: "He might be blonde, but I can't tell because of all of the blood."

Number 12: "She's a little disheveled, but appears to be fine otherwise."

Number 13: "I can't get this guy to leave. It's like he can't hear me. Please advise."

Number 14: "I don't understand a word coming out of this girl's mouth."
